Receptionist: Hi, welcome to the Thames Hotel. How can I help you?

Client: Hi, I would like a room for tonight, please. Do you have any vacancies?

Receptionist: Yes, sir, would you like a single room, or a double room?

Client: A single room, please.

Receptionist: How long will you be staying?

Client: For three nights.

Receptionist: Okay, would you like a king or a queen size bed?

Client: Well, king size, please.

Receptionist: Sure, and would you rather have a room with a view of the ocean or of the forest?

Client: It doesn't really matter, whichever is less expensive.

Receptionist: Sure, it's going to be 55 pounds per night. Can I have your ID, please?

Client: Here it is.

Receptionist: Alright, could you sign here, please?

Client: No problem. Do you accept American Express?

Receptionist: Sure, Visa, Master Card or American Express.

Client: Perfect, here is my card.

Receptionist: Okay. Here's your key. Your room number is 276. It's on the 2nd floor, you can take the elevators behind us. If you need anything, just dial 9 for the reception.

Client: Thank you for your help.

Receptionist: My pleasure. Enjoy your stay!

China has announced ambitious plans to drastically reduce single-use plastics by 2025. In January 2020 China's National Development and Reform Commission introduced a number of measures designed to cut the production and use of plastics over the next five years. It announced that by the end of 2020, non-biodegradable plastic bags would be banned in supermarkets and shopping malls in major cities. The ban also applied to food delivery services, which use vast amounts of plastics. Single-use plastic straws and cutlery used by food takeaway services were also to be banned nationwide by the end of the same year. China encouraged the use of alternative materials such as non-plastic products and biodegradable shopping bags.

Single-use plastics are one of the world's biggest sources of plastic pollution. They have become an inseparable part of daily life and a part of our throwaway culture. The Chinese authorities set a goal of reducing the "intensity of consumption" in order to reverse our reliance on single-use plastics. Previous regulations to restrict plastic use, in 2008, led to an estimated cut in plastic bag production of 67 billion bags. The United Nations said it is urgent that all countries adopt policies similar to those China introduced. It said: "We are already unable to cope with the amount of plastic waste we generate, unless we rethink the way we manufacture, use and manage plastics."

After you listen to it for the first time, you have 1 minute and 30 seconds to mark your chosen answers on your answer sheet. While listening to the text for a second time, you can mark your chosen answers. After you listen to the text for the second time, you have 1 minute and 30 seconds more to check or correct your answers.

Presenter: Welcome to our radio show "Camera Club". This week with us is photographer Tim Freeman.

Tim: Thanks for the invitation. I know many of you have just taken up photography, so I want to give you my 6...well, I suppose it's really 5 top tips for taking great photos.

Presenter: Excellent!

Tim: Let me start with

TIP ONE – Look your subject in the eye! When photographing someone, hold the camera at their eye level. For children, don't be afraid to bend down. It really gives the photo a personal feel.

TIP TWO – Move in close. If the person looks small, take a step or two closer before taking the picture. But don't get too close.

TIP THREE – Don't always have a building in the middle! The centre of your picture is not the best place for a building. Bring your picture to life by simply moving it off-centre. What about the top left corner, for example?

TIP FOUR – Watch the light. The most important part of every picture is the light. During the day, bright sunlight can look very hard. Try to take pictures early morning or late evening when the light is soft. This is particularly good when photographing landscapes.

TIP FIVE – Use a plain background. Take time to study the surrounding area. Really look through the camera lens carefully. We've all seen photos which make someone look like an alien from outer space because poles appear from the top of their head! [laughter]

The last thing I want to say is – enjoy trying different things!
